

Abstract Publication & Public Release Policy

Abstract Confidentiality During Review

All submitted abstracts will be treated as confidential by ICAR 2026 organizing committee, reviewers, and program personnel throughout the peer-review and selection process. Abstracts will be used solely for evaluation and program development purposes and will not be publicly disclosed by the Congress prior to official publication.

No Embargo Policy

The Congress does not maintain an embargo policy. The confidentiality obligations described above apply only to the Congress and its representatives and do not restrict authors, institutions, sponsors, or presenters from publicly discussing, presenting, publishing, or otherwise disclosing data or findings contained in a submitted abstract before abstract publication, subject to any applicable institutional, journal, regulatory, contractual, or legal requirements.

Abstract Publication

The full text of accepted abstracts will be published and made available to registrants on November 2, 2026, coinciding with the release of the official Congress program and abstract proceedings. Following publication, authors, institutions, sponsors, and presenters may freely discuss, present, and disseminate the information contained within their abstracts.

Compliance Disclosures

Organizations required to disclose information to comply with applicable laws, regulations, securities obligations, or stock exchange requirements may release such information at any time. Any such disclosure should be limited to the information required for compliance purposes and should not materially alter the scientific content scheduled for presentation at the Congress.
